The first case confirmed in Slovenia

The news was announced on Twitter by the Prime Minister, who is performing on-going later, Marjan Sarec

Marjan Sarec's tweet
© Twitter

The first case of infection with a new coronavirus has been discovered in Slovenia, the prime minister said on Twitter. Marjan Sarec is in the running business. The Minister of Foreign Affairs will say more at a press conference tonight health Aleš Šabeder. Slovenia has thus joined more than 80 countries that are infected with this infection virus.

A coronavirus erupted late last year in Wuhan, China's Hubei province. The focus of the eruption is supposed to be a fish and animal market where the virus has spread from animals to humans.

Slovenia has thus joined more than 80 recording countries infection with this virus.

The new coronavirus was named sars-cov-2 and the disease caused by the virus was covid-19.

The first Slovenes infected with sars-cov-2 were passengers of Diamond Princess in February, but following the assurances of the competent people then, in Japan.

More tracks ...